Woman Of Year To Speak At Forum Assembly Today

The Outstanding Woman of 1967, Ette Lee, will be honored at the 10 a.m. Forum Assembly in the Smith Fieldhouse today.

The introduction of the Outstanding Woman is just part of the many activities planned for Women's Week Tuesday's activities included a fashion show, make-up demonstrations, and information on "Trousseau and You."

"Women look at Women" is the topic of a panel discussion featuring Miss Lee; Mrs. Ernest L. Wilkinson; Mrs. Elliott Cameron, authoress; Carol Lynn Pearson; and Homecoming Queen Gloria Beckstead, at 8 p.m. in the memorial lounge.

Holiday ideas will be displayed and demonstrated in the step-down lounge of the Wilkinson Center throughout the day.

'FROSTED FANTASY'
"Frosted Fantasy," the annual Preference Ball, will climax Women's Week at 9 p.m. Friday. International Folk Dancers and A Cappella Choir will be featured at the pre-dance Christmas Concert in the Smith Fieldhouse at 7 p.m.

Tickets will be $2 per couple for the dance and $1 per person for the Concert. They will be available on the Third Floor of the Wilkinson Center.

LIFE STORY
The story of Miss Lee's life as she began a teaching career, became a millionairess and set up many homes for boys will be told through the film, "The Little Red Hen."

Now in her 80's, Miss Lee had to do everything for herself. However, she has given much of her time and means in the service of others.

Sophomore Critical After Crash

Harold Pease, a BYU sophomore was still in critical condition late Tuesday, according to his sister, Carolyn.

However, Carolyn, a BYU freshman, had not heard anything from her parents by late Wednesday and felt confident of Harold's recovery.

Pease and three other BYU students were involved in an automobile accident near Le Grande, Ore. early Sunday morning as they were returning to school after Thanksgiving.

"He's lucky to be alive," said Miss Pease, a freshman. "You should have seen the car. There was no room for his body. I don't know how they got him out."

Pease was in surgery for several hours with 12 doctors. One kidney was removed. Along with a punctured spleen he suffered severe internal injuries.

A minimum two-to-three-week stay in the hospital is expected by his family.

MORE TODAY?

Heavy snowfall is predicted for today. If weather complies with weatherman, ski resorts may open.

Heavy Snows Anticipated

Heavy snows may open Utah ski resorts this weekend.

That is the report from Ray Lindquist, Forest Service Snow Ranger.

Alta at present has 18 to 20 inches of snow. "There are several runs skiers can use with that little bit of snow," said Lindquist. But the resort is still closed.

Students can ski at Brighton "with 16 or 18 inches." Brighton now has 15 inches of snow, according to the ranger.

POOR YEAR

In the Wasatch National Forest Service report, Lindquist said, "This is a very poor year for snow. Last year we were skiing the second week of November. There were 30 inches at Alta by November 14."

This is the worst year since 1959, when Brighton didn't open until the second week in December.

If the forecast of heavy snow late Wednesday night and today is accurate, the resorts will probably open this weekend.

Beginning Monday, the Associated Press, United Press International, and Provo radio stations KOVO and KIXX will carry ski reports every morning. The radio stations will broadcast their reports between 6:30 and 7 a.m.

Geissler-Grow Clash To Pit Republicans vs. Democrats

That the Federal Government's spending programs show poor economic sense and deserve re-evaluation."

COACH'S VIEWS

Debate Coach Jed Richardson supported Grow's refusal to accept this topic because it was "vague and far too general; both Democrats and Republicans are responsible for the present day spending. . . . the debate would at best constitute a mere rehash of things already said. The resolution represents an overlap of policy, value and fact."

Miss Geissler commented, "I'm totally inexperienced in writing debate topics and in debating. I asked Stav twice in telephone conversations if he would write the topic. Both times he declined."

She added, "I don't see the rationality behind his charge, because he had a chance to write it but he passed the buck back to me."

Stewart Grow, Jr., commenting on the debate scheduled for today, expressed the hope that Miss Geissler "would be able to come."

By Sheri Hansen
Universe News Writer

Varsity Theater will be into a verbal battlefield at noon when Judy Geissler's Stewart Grow Jr.

for the first of two debates will be, "Resolved: Judy Jr. has done the cause of noble journalism a disservice. Grow will take the affirmative; Miss Geissler will take the negative."

SECOND CLASH

will meet again, reinforced by their partners Paul and Judy Wolf, in a debate between the College Democrats and the College Republicans. The topic of the second debate will be, "Resolved: The policies of the present Federal administration regarding subordination of individuals are not in national interest."

The debates climax the written portion that has taken place in editorial page of the Universe since November when Miss Geissler leveled a barrage at Mr. Grow for "uncooperative and unable" to meet and participate in a series of scheduled debates between the College Democrats and the College Republicans.

BAD START

A controversial debate which Grow and Debate Coach Jed Richardson felt started with an able initial topic will take place in the Varsity theater at 8 p.m. immediately following the Grow-Geissler discussion.

Geissler stated that she feared the second debate badly. "She feared her nation will 'damage the' Republicans, because of social feelings." She would, in debate, "under protest," the College Republicans are represented by somewhat qualified."

First topic which Grow insubstantially was: "Resolved:

Seniors May Participate In BYU Scholar Program

By Charlotte Antri
Universe Feature Writer

General BYU seniors are participating in what Dr. Richard Bushman terms "a tradition in the land" as they work in the University Scholar Program administered by the Honors Program. The program, which Dr. Robert Bushman started five years ago, is still growing and changing. It was the first time a procedure for admittance was devised and the first time University Scholars were listed on commencement program.

RESEARCH
Student becomes a University Scholar by doing individual research in depth on some subject interests him, receiving up to 12 hours credit and spending as much as a year's time on the project.

Bushman, assistant director of the Honors Program, believes "An individual research project can be the most exciting and rewarding experience of your undergraduate life." Those involved in the University Scholar Program agree.

Carl Pletsch, a history major who just completed an article concerning John Steinbeck's "Tortilla Flat as Tragic Comedy" and who is now working on a comparison of Steinbeck's view of Communist idealism with that of Hemingway, says "the most satisfying thing is finishing the research and getting to the point where you can make a creative synthesis of your ideas."

MINORITY GROUPS
Howard Palmer, whose research has involved minority groups in Alberta, Canada, likes to think his work is helping people to understand themselves and others. As part of his project, he wrote a series of articles about the groups that have immigrated into Alberta for the Lethbridge Herald, an Alberta newspaper. Now he is attempting to gain a theoretical background in sociology and studying Canadian history in order to put his research into perspective.

"It's been the first time that I've really felt I've been doing something really significant," he said.

"Every senior in the Honors Program ought to try it," says Rafael Vinas, an economics major who has been studying import demands in his native Uruguay. He feels the University Scholars Program is "valuable because it allows you to work on your own."

Dr. Bushman thinks this independence is "crucial to the success of the program."

University Scholars are involved in the type of thinking and scholarship that they will find in their graduate work. At the same time they are assigned to faculty advisors who help them with their research.

as a University Scholar does not hinge on a grade-point average.

"It's quite a different thing to get your grades and be creative. This really puts pressure on you to think creatively."

While the students who do participate are carefully selected he "would like to encourage more people to get involved."

Interesting History Behind Karate

At the beginning of time man has been accustomed to using arms for self-defense. When a man is deprived of a weapon, a knife is necessary for self preservation.

Historically, Karate is a means of defending one's self against attack by one or more opponents utilizing the body to accomplish defense.

Karate origins are not known to any degree of certainty. The first mention of Karate is in China when 6th century records forbade the people to use weapons. Desiring some form of defense, Zen Priests developed this art for the people. Karate or Karate type arts have been introduced all over the world.

With the establishment of the Karate Club students are given opportunity to learn this art.

Classes are started at the beginning of each semester. Presently there are fifty members, including eleven girls. Practice periods are two hours long and are three times a week.

The purpose of this club is not only to learn to defend yourself from physical harm but also to help mental and spiritual development. Here, members are taught that the ultimate goal is not in victory or defeat but perfection in the art of karate.

SCHOTOKAN

There are many styles of Karate, each placing emphasis on different techniques. The style at BYU is one brought to the United States from Japan by a Shihan. It is called Shotokan and stresses simplicity.

It's Karate Club is associated with the Southern California Karate Association of which Mr. Ohshima is the head instructor. Degrees of proficiency are determined by the club instructors Mr. Ohshima, who comes once each semester. Not only during the match but such things as personality are considered.

The "belt" colors also represent one's skill in Karate. Beginners wear "white belts" which have shades of progression. Next is brown, with three phases; black with five phases.

Although breaking boards and bricks is possible with Karate it is not stressed for the simple reason that they can't fight back. Though Karate requires a lifetime to perfect, the benefits are numerous. Not only does a person learn how to defend himself but also learns the art of self-discipline.

Flying Time

by Camilla Miner
~~~~~ Culture Editor

I had a research paper due Monday; one due Wednesday; and I have a paper due Friday.

Needless to say, those three facts clouded my Thanksgiving holiday considerably. And due to my late heavy concentration on the subject, I've made a number of observations about people who write papers.

The first conclusion was that practically everyone I met in the library last Friday and Saturday was in one of my classes.

There's an "esprit de corps" among paper writers. They greet each other and ask how it's going, hoping the other guy will be gracious enough not to tell. The paper writer is in a frantic hurry and usually not going anywhere fast.

BLEARY FACES

Paper writers carry lots of books around and sport rather bleary-looking faces. No sleep and many hours of close work make them numb.

It's important for people who write papers to talk to each other. Those who aren't in the clutch of the experience have a tendency to be amused by the zombie-like reactions of study-dulled students.

The boys are easy to pick out because they wear old sweat shirts and have shadowy faces. The girls hide their hair under scarves and their clothes under coats. The kindest thing you can do for paper writers is not look at them too closely—and bring them something to eat.

The difference between a paper-writing student and a regular student is time.

Which brings me to the subject of the hour. The reason I had to write three research papers in one four-day weekend is because I have a bit of a problem with time.

FRUSTRATING STANDARDS

I live on Miner Standard Time. It's rather exciting for me but others have found it frustrating. Oh, and I'm occasionally discouraged, too, as I know of no one else who admits living on this standard.

I use the same kind of clock as everyone else; I just read it differently. If I have a class at 8 a.m. I am always ready by 8 a.m. But somehow I forget it takes time to get there.

If I plan to finish a paper by 6 p.m. I have the rough draft done by 6 p.m. but I always forget that it takes time to retype it and put it in a folder.

All these problems come from a secret wish I have to fly. Fast—like the speed of light. I firmly believe that someday I'll be able to wish myself places and be there just like that.

NOT ORIGINAL

It's not really an original idea. I began to wish it when I read an Alfred Hitchcock mystery. It was about a scientist who could change himself into light waves in a telephone booth-like closet and then recombine himself at a receiver.

As far as I'm concerned that's just like Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea. Submarines become a reality; why not travel the speed of light. And if we're able to travel the speed of light, why wouldn't it be possible to put a rough draft of a research paper into a machine and have it come out perfect. After all, the researching is the important thing.

When I can fly I'll be on time and everyone else won't be on time. They'll always be fifteen and twenty minutes early. People will dislike them as much as they dislike people who are late. (I think.)

'Electra' To Be Presented Today

Sophocles' classical drama "Electra" will be seen Thursday and Friday at 5 p.m. on the stage of the Experimental Theater in the Fine Arts Center.

The play will be directed, in fulfillment of a class assignment, by Ph.D. candidate J. Richard Waite. Admission is free.

Heading the cast is Becky Davidson as Electra. Miss Davidson is a freshman in dramatic arts from Kearns, Utah. As a high school senior, she won the best actress award at the Utah State High School Drama Festival held at BYU last spring.

Also included in the cast are Herb Cihak as Peedogopus, Jim Brady as Orestes, Cheryl Kern as Clytemnestra, Brenda Burton as Clytemnestra, and Carl Hanson as Agasthius. Jeannette Fitzgerald will be the chorus leader. The chorus is made up of 14 girls.

Also being performed the same evening will be a medieval Christmas play, "The Second Shepherd's Play." It will be directed by Il Shin, a graduate dramatic arts student from Korea. "The Second Shepherd's Play" is a comic story dealing with the shepherds who saw the star that was seen in the sky when Christ was born.

Orestes and Electra listen as their mother Clytemnestra berates them after they have killed their father Agamemnon upon his return from the Trojan War.

Baby Is Aware

What makes that newborn babe such a sleephead?

Perhaps, suggests a noted psychiatrist, it is because the learning involved in mastering his world is so intense and exhausting.

Indeed, researchers now tell us that: Infants, on the very day of their birth, are able to track a triangle with their eyes.

Day-old babies can discriminate between a variety of sounds and smells and quickly become conditioned to them when they are repeated.

Three-day-old infants not only can follow objects with their eyes but even rotate their heads to follow better.

These, and other scientifically researched projects have shattered the myth of infancy as a time of blissful passivity and helplessness.

Royalty, Love, Intrigue, Murder Portrayed in "Masked Ball"

Verdi's opera, "The Masked Ball," sweeps onto the de Jong Concert Hall stage tonight at 8:15 p.m.

Unfolding the story of the King of Sweden's assassination, Roy King and Clare Johnson portray King Gustav and his love Amelia.

Fate twines the lovers lives to gether when a witch predicts to Amelia that she will find her life under a tree in the village. The King follows her there and when they vow their love, the assassins make an attempt on the King's life. He is saved by Count Johan, a loyal subject and unfortunately also Amelia's husband. When Johan discovers that Amelia loves the king, he wants revenge and joins the assassins. The third act is a lavishly elegant masked ball at which Johan murders the king.

Y Grapplers Debut
At Montana StateBy Jack Bailey
Universe Sportswriter

Big Sky country will be the setting for Coach Fred Davis' wrestling team to open the 1967-68 campaign against Montana State in Bozeman.

The Cougar grapplers, working for a third consecutive Western Athletic Conference title, meet a successful wrestling power in Montana State.

McADAMS CAPTAIN

Buss McAdams, fourth place finisher in the NCAA finals last season, will captain BYU's team in Saturday's debut. McAdams is in for a real assignment as the Bobcats' 137-lb. performer is rated one of the best in the area.

Other starters will be Jeff Batchelor, runner-up in the WAC 139-lb. division or Wayne Fehlberg, a sophomore from Worland, Wyo., in the 123-lb. class.

Efraim Escalante, a letterman from '87, will start in the 139-lb. spot. Judd Humphreys will start in the 145-lb. division, and Howard Hall, WAC champion in the 152-lb. category, will work in that weight.

HEAVYWEIGHT FILL-IN

Hironitsu Fujita, a senior from Osaka, Japan, will be in the 177-lb. position, and filling in at heavyweight will be Bob Gunther, a junior from Salt Lake City.

Gunther is replacing Bob Christensen, a regular last season who is out with a twisted knee. Two other top contenders, Mike McAdams (139) and Bill Osborn (145), are also nursing injuries.

Chuck Henry and Merrill Cook will round out the Cougar lineup at Bozeman. Henry, last year's WAC champion in the 123-lb. weight, will wrestle in the 115-lb. division while Cook will wrestle in the 141-lb. weight. These two matches will be exhibition only and will not count on the scoring.

OKLAHOMA TOURNEY

Next week the Cougars travel to Stillwater, Okla., to compete in the Oklahoma State University tournament on Friday and Saturday, and the 115 and 191-lb. classes will be represented there.

"The kids that are healthy are eager and really ready to go" is the word from Coach Davis.

"Montana State should yield stiff opening competition," added Davis. "They are the wrestling power of that area, and usually wear the Big Sky Conference Crown."

The first home action for the wrestling team will be Dec. 15 and 16 against New Mexico and Iowa State.

BYU will also host the WAC wrestling tournament for the first time when the championships come up in March.

Odle Assumes
National Lead
In Receptions

BYU's stellar split end Phil Odle moved into the top spot among the nation's pass receivers with ten catches against San Jose State last weekend. The performance brought his total for the year to 77.

Odle is still in danger of being ousted from first place, as Rick Eber (67 catches) of Tulsa and Bob Goodridge (68) of Vanderbilt have one game remaining.

With 13 points on a pair of field goals and seven extra points, Cougar Dennis Patena took over the fourth position among kick-scoring leaders with 62 points on the season. He trails North Carolina State's Gerald Warren (70), Jerry DeFoyser (66) and UCLA's Zenon Anderson (64).

Another BYU griddier high in the national statistics is defensive halfback Bobby Roberts, whose seven interceptions ties him for fourth place.

Punter Richard Adams is in 15th place with a 41.4 average, and quarterback Mark Lyons is 22nd in total offense and 24th in passing.

As a team, the Cougar grid squad is sixth in total offense with a 396.2 average and seventh in passing offense with 238.4 yards per game.

num of six games.

Coach John Seggar is taking two teams of ten men each for the Cougars' first appearance at this event. The number one squad will be composed of Sherd Duncan, Ben Fitts, Larry Hardin, Bill Hunk, Wally Josephs, Kiteone Kamale, John Ririe, Ross Turner, Len Goling, and Lloyd Welch.

Comprising the second team are Craig Hutchings, Kurt De Long, Al-an Hutchings, Steve Rallison, Mike Worthington, John Seggar, Jim Malone, Tim Fuhr, Joe De Long and Al Neighbors.

Cagers Primed And Ready

By Glen Willardson
Associate Sports Editor

Coach Stan Watts opens his 19th year at the Cougar helm Saturday when BYU's basketball team officially opens the 1967-68 campaign against the University of Denver at Denver, Colo.

The Cougars have six weeks of practice behind them along with a long trip to the Orient and South Pacific last summer. They appear primed and ready to start playing "for keeps."

RANDY SCHOUTEN

... Senior guard lends experience.

That is a good sign, too, because the Mountain Cats' opening opponents are no softies. Following Saturday's debut, the BYU squad returns home to host Texas Tech Monday night and the University of Texas the following Saturday.

Denver coach Troy Bledsoe rates his team as "the best I've had at the University." The Pioneers are strong at the guard spot, with All-American Jay Hollins leading the way.

Teaming with Hollins are Horace Kearney and Rick Callahan, who supply plenty of speed for Denver's fast-break attack.

Countering for BYU at the guard positions are Randy Schouten, Lynn Parsons, Doug Howard, Gary Foster and Jon Dress, but Howard and Foster are on last year's varsity.

Cougars Jim Eakins (6-11), Mike Fisher (6-11) and Scott Lythgoe (6-4) are candidates for center position, though Eakins expected to get the start.

Forwards Karl Limno, Lythgoe, Gary Schneider, Davis and Bruce Barron give plenty of depth on the front line.

Limno was an All-Western Athletic Conference choice last as a sophomore and led the in free throw percentage.

Denver has 6-10 Brian Clatter in center position, a veteran last year who averaged 12 a game.

Magazine Honors Odle

Sports Illustrated has tabbed Phil Odle as its Lineman of the Week for his outstanding performance Saturday in BYU's 67-68 romp over San Jose State.

In the game Odle caught ten passes, including the four touchdowns, in gaining 111 yards. He needed four receptions to move into second place on the NCAA all-time list.

The 6-0, 190-lb. split end holds every BYU receiving record and is also the best pass catcher in Western Athletic Conference history.

He has made the All-Conference team three straight years and was WAC Lineman of the Year as a sophomore.

Years from now, when Tommy Hudspeth looks back on the 1967 football season, it won't conjure up the happy thoughts in his memory.

Despite the fact that the Cougar gridders posted the 11 straight winning season for BYU against one of the best schedules in the school's history, their play was steadily sporadic.

Even though Coach Hudspeth early in the year pointed out weaknesses such as inexperience down the offensive line and lack of speed in the defensive secondary, both coaches and players claim they shouldn't have lost the season.

As the 19 seniors clean out their lockers and as their seniors hit the high school and junior college bushes to be replaced, one can easily find cause for optimism and the future.

BRIGHT FUTURE

Hudspeth's liberal substitution policy has uncovered several players who possess potentially great talent for the season ahead.

Young quarterbacks Marc Lyons and Terry Sanford, along with freshman sensation Rick Jones, plus running back Tom Rippee, Ron Wakely, Ken Call, Wally Hawkins and Jack Sanders came on strong as the season drew to a close.

Though there may never be another Phil Odle, several line receivers on the frosh roster should provide a supporting cast for Sanders, John Paterson and Joe Hale.

The Cougar chiefs will have to find adequate replacements for a host of graduating linemen and defensive backs. It will be to challenge Wyoming's growing domination of the Western Athletic Conference.

While many of us felt that Intermountain and WAC had received a big boost this season in the eyes of the outside world, this area thanks to individual and significant victories over prominent foes, appears to have been slighted.

STARS SNUBBED

Some of the greatest players ever to don a grid jersey about—namely Phil Odle, Bill Staley and Curley Culp—have been virtually ignored on the All-America teams used thus far.

Such exclusion seems rather ludicrous in the light of the fact that invitations received by the trio and given the number of gridders from this region who have made it big in pro ranks. Innumerable personal contacts, special All-America brochures, news releases, etc., have had little if any effect.

Last year Virgil Carter, who set or tied three NCAA records, received only honorable mention on one major All-America poll and was ignored by East-West game officials in an intense effort by BYU sources.

FRUSTRATED S.I.D.

"It certainly is frustrating, to say the least," sighed Ed Schulthess, BYU's Sports Information Director as he scanned the latest of the post-season All-America lists. "About all we can do is keep up our efforts to get the gridders that Odle and the others deserve, and step up endeavors where possible," he offered.

"One thing I guess we're going to have to do is get together on a regional basis and launch a cooperative campaign for our athletes," he went on.

"I thought sure that Phil would make at least two of the teams," was his disappointed concluding comment. Oh, well. As they say, Rome wasn't built in a day.

The triple dose of Odle, Staley and Culp in the prestigious East-West Shrine Classic in San Francisco would have done much for the status of this zone.

With the lamentable injury to "The Spoiler," much to be lost will be on the capable shoulders of "Number one" and ASU's Culp.

HARDY HARRIERS

Nobody was more surprised, or exhilarated, about the victory of BYU's cross country team in the WAC Championships than was Coach Sherard James.

"I didn't touch the ground for days after we won that," he beamed Coach James.

We weren't supposed to have a chance to win it, much with half the team sick with the flu and having to go all the way to Laramie the day before the meet," he sighed.

The Cougars' best runner, former NCAA steeplechase champion Bob Richards, was so ill he almost didn't accompany the team to Laramie.

One of the others, according to James, was feeling so tired after all the way up and back.

Many of the Puma harriers who captured the WAC in a record-breaking performance must have been tired on pure guts and determination.

We're proud of them, too, Coach James.

Odle Honorable Mention ...

All-America Choices Named

NEW YORK (UPI)—USC's national champion team, led by O. J. Simpson, and a group of stars from Dixie dominated the 1967 United Press International All-American football team.

Gridders Also Scholars

Three BYU football stars have been named to the Western Athletic Conference All-Academic football team as released by Commissioner Paul Brechler's office this week.

The Cougar gridders are Casey Boyett, Bobby Roberts and Perry Rodrigue. Boyett, a physical education major with a 3.27 grade point average, was the only WAC repeater from last year.

BYU quarterback Terry Sanford, a pre-med major with a 3.65 gpa, was edged by Utah's Jack Gehlke.

Candidates had to have at least a B average for either their entire college career or the previous two semesters.

The All-Academic team:

Business Major Chosen Senior For November

Best achievement was "trot," said Robert E. Hughes, from Pocatello, Idaho, who is maintaining a 4.0 was chosen the Student of the Month for November.

ROBERT E. STEPHENS Student of the Month

Hughes, 'Man,' mixes

Hughes describes his reign as Most Preferred Man as the most distinguished "to come to me." The Most Preferred Man will be elected at the Preference Assembly. Selection was based on the list of BYU coeds. Names are Lowell Castle, Steve Sidwell, and others. Others are Marc Tanner, Ike Fitzgerald, and Grant to work with the preliminary program, graduated from BYU last year. A P.E. minor, he is a leader for two years, stationed in Virginia Marine Corps since Oct.

ted his feelings about the Most Preferred Man title. "The first thought in my mind is that we ourselves; genuine and we considered it an honor to represent the campus. Individual elected to this job to live up to. The of the Church and the of BYU are just two,"

BOB HUGHES Most Preferred Man

Not doing anything half way, Stephens is a business management major with a composite minor in French and German. He plans to get a Masters in International business at UCLA. Stephens feels that his major has helped in giving him a background to think conceptually.

Some of his interests include Vice Pres. of Professional Business, Pres. of AIESEC, Elders Quorum president, chairman of first Circle K turtle trot and also of 2nd annual turtle trot. He also served a Netherlands mission.

J. KENNETH MANGUM Junior of the Month

Junior Of The Month From Phoenix, Arizona

A political science major from Phoenix, Arizona, with a Spanish minor and a compiled 3.84 GPA is November's Outstanding Junior. J. Kenneth Mangum is this month's recipient of the honor awarded monthly to a junior outstanding in cooperation and attitude as well as scholastic achievement.

Sponsored by the Junior Recognition Committee, a different college each month is asked to select possible candidates for this award. The Committee goes to the students' bishops and finally interviews the candidates themselves before the final choice is made.

A returned missionary from Uruguay, Mangum is in the 48th Ward Elder's Quorum presidency, is vice president of Criollo Club on campus, and was a member of the Homecoming Float Committee.

Friday Publication Workshop

A publications workshop designed to correlate the many publications of BYU and the various departments will be conducted Friday beginning at 8:30 a.m. in 337 Wilkinson Center, University Publications Director Ernest L. Olson announced.

The workshop was organized under the direction of Vice President of University Relations Stephen R. Covey in an effort to stop the publication of so much duplicate material, Olson said.

The workshop will include a display of publications, a discussion of University objectives and publications policy, an analysis of current publications and present and proposed publications procedures. A luncheon will be at noon.

Those who do not have an invitation but who wish to attend must contact University Publications by noon today as places are limited, Olson said.

A 4,000 year old roller stamp, used by a person of rank in Baghdad, has been presented to the BYU Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology. The stamp measures seven-eighths by three-eighths inches and was used to sign important documents written on clay tablets.

4,000 Year Old Stamp Given To Y

By Maria Allen

Universe Feature Writer

Possibly as many as 4,000 years ago, some person of rank living near what is now Baghdad used the small roller stamp pictured to affix his signature to important documents written on clay tablets.

The stamp was presented to the BYU Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology Nov. 10, by Mr. and Mrs. Orin D. Parker in the name of their daughter Tanya who found the stamp on a "tell" or ruin mound near Baghdad, Iraq while the family was living there from 1960-65, according to Dr. Ross T. Christensen of the archaeology department.

DELICATE CARVINGS

The delicate carvings on the stamp, which measures only seven-eighths inch in height by threeeighths inch in diameter, are a fine example of the craftsmanship of the day, said Dr. Christensen. A longitudinal perforation allowed the owner to wear his stamp on a cord strung about his neck, keeping it safely on his person avoided forgeries.

Dr. M. Wells Jakeman, curator of the museum, places the stamp in the Neo-Sumerian period which extended from 2200-1900 B.C. Carved from a fine-grain black stone, probably diorite, the stamp bears four standing figures, two gods and two kings in ceremonial robes participating in a religious rite.

Y GRADUATES

Orin D. and Rita Clement Parker graduated from BYU in 1948. Mr. Parker is currently the executive vice-president of the American Friends of the Middle East. The family lives in Bethesda, Maryland.

Hyar On China

Contemporary China by Ruth Adams was reviewed yesterday by Dr. Paul Hyar.

Hyar stressed that despite the raging conflict in Vietnam, America's chief Asian problems center in China.

Dr. Hyar noted two great needs of the American public: The improvement in quality as well as quantity of information which reaches the public, and a need to stimulate the public to increase their knowledge of Chinese matters.

He said a broad reappraisal of U.S.-China policy is necessary to recognize the past mistakes we've made.

He noted that we must recognize Peking's rule over China and stop ignoring China's surging nationalism and hesitating when China first offered to accept U.S. correspondents.

The best-informed China watchers assert that China wants political status more than they want territorial gains.

Asian nationalism and American industrial power must go hand in hand in formulating new policies and making possible peaceful coexistence between Asia and United States.

A University Is Condition, Says Jacobs

"Can BYU achieve academic freedom?" was the topic of today's free forum.

About 40 students and faculty attended the noonday discussion in the Varsity Theater.

Dr. Bryant Jacobs of the Utah Department led the discussion.

"A university is not a bureaucracy where the junior utilities find it advantageous to work with the boss," pointed out Jacobs. "A university should place where ideas can be changed freely without fear of reprisal."

Quoting Karl G. Maeser, LDS apostles deemed "mutual trust in administration, faculty, and students" and "free agency" as a primary for a university to flourish.

"A university is not a place, it is a condition," said Dr. Jacobs. He cited the selection of speakers at BYU, the securing of a position at a BYU text, and the signing of the honor code as proof of academic freedom.

SYRIA RATTLES SABER
(UPI)—Syrian President Nureddin Atassi said Wednesday the only solution to the Arab-Israeli dispute. He is thousands in Damascus that Syria would never U.N. Security Council resolution aimed at restoring the Middle East.
was reported taking a similar stand.
while, Syrian Premier Youssef Zayyan arrived in reportedly there to ask for a stronger Russian stand like East.

U.S. ANGELS SEEKING VENGEANCE?
SANTA MONICA, CALIF. (UPI)—California Highway Patrolmen were alerted Wednesday to a rumor that a chapter of the Angels had put a $1,000 bounty on any patrolman for the shooting of two of its members.
The patrolmen were alerted to all CHP offices throughout the patrol's Baldwin Park station.

BRITISH FINANCIAL BOSS QUIT
LONDON (UPI)—Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan said Britain's financial boss Wednesday after a three-year fight to save the pound collapse in de-Prime Minister Harold Wilson named Home Secretary Jenkins to succeed him.

TE HOUSE DENIES CONFLICT RUMOR
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House termed "non-sensational" suggestions that Robert S. McNamara was at the Pentagon because of a serious conflict with President and his military advisers over Vietnam war were unconfirmed reports, meanwhile, that a administration shakeup may be in the works, involving several cabinet members.

Despite Spending Cut...

Passage Of Tax Bill In '67 Doubtful

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Johnson administration proposed $4.1 billion in federal spending cuts Wednesday in a new, seemingly hopeless bid to get a tax increase this year from a skeptical Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee reopened hearings on President Johnson's proposal for a 10 percent income tax surcharge, which it shelved Oct. 3, to hear the administration's new spending plan. But key members cast doubt in advance that the measure would be passed.

PASSAGE DOUBTFUL

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler left the impression after testifying that he, too, doubted Congress would approve higher taxes before it adjourns probably close to Christmas. The committee chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., said House action by then was impossible.

Fowler disclosed that the administration had ordered all agencies, including the Defense Department, to cut their payrolls by 2 percent and to trim "controllable" spending programs not related directly to the Vietnam war by 10 percent.

Allies Get Back Captured Camp

SAIGON (UPI)—Allied warplanes, strafing and bombing by the light of flares, drove out a battalion of Communist troops that attacked and briefly occupied part of a government district and regional headquarters Wednesday in a fierce assault near the Cambodian border.

The attack 30 miles north of Saigon was the third Communist assault in a month in the Cambodia border area. Only a few hours later, Gen. William C. Westmoreland charged the Communists were "taking advantage of the eastern border area of Cambodia with or without consent" of Cambodian authorities.

FISHING ANYONE?

I'm Timmy Millett, 6 years old. I caught my first fish this summer. In fact, I caught two fish before my Daddy ever caught one.

Fishing is lots of fun, especially when you are successful. It's much like shopping at my Daddy's store, besides being lots of fun, you have the pleasure of taking something home with you to reward your efforts. Look at what you'll save during our Big Dollar Sale.
